Hooper Corporation Launches New Website

(MADISON, Wis.) – Hooper Corporation is pleased to announce the launch of its new and improved website that reflects significant changes happening throughout the company and its industries.

The updated look and feel of www.hoopercorp.com includes features from the previous site that have been expanded upon to enhance the end user experience. New sections, including our Value Added and Green Initiatives sections, have been added to further delve into industry trends that Hooper is a key player in. Videos and increased photo content allow Hooper employees and customers to stay more current with projects underway and safety initiatives. The addition of the Communications section makes all previous OnSite newsletters available online and offers a list of our recently awarded projects and links to Hooper in the news.

Hooper Corporation is a leading full-service contractor in the Electric Power and Mechanical trades. Headquartered in Madison, Wis., since 1913, Hooper has extensive experience in completing large and complex projects and is capable of traveling throughout the continental U.S. and Canada.
